

No matter where you are in the world, regardless of language, the new rules will still be the same.

Wash and sanitize your hands as much as possible, practice social distancing, and always wear a mask.

As places are opening back up and people are starting to travel again, it is important to remember these rules, and how you can follow them in different places.

In stores, schools, airports, and even in other countries you still have to use social distancing.

In places that are unfamiliar, finding a place to wash your hands may be hard, but you can bring hand sanitizer with you to quickly disinfect your hands until you can find a bathroom!

No matter where you are, you should always wear a mask, just like these kids!

Visit us at
Pwporg.org

No matter where you are, safety is universal.
Preparedness Always Matters

